

SCOPE OF PRACTICE

Section 301 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services to help clients relax in order to:

- a. Reduce their stress and accompanying tightness or tension in feet, legs, hands, arms, shoulders, neck, torso, face and jaws; and
- b. Reduce any accompanying irritability, fear, worry or concern; and
- c. If any client has any concerns that his or her stress is a medical, dental, psychological or chiropractic problem, the Licensed Biofeedback Therapist shall referral the client to a licensed professional in the appropriate profession; and
- d. If working on an animal and any client has any concerns that her or his animal may have a condition, disease or disorder, the Licensed Biofeedback Therapist shall refer the client a licensed veterinarian; and
- e. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may work under the supervision of any such licensed professionals in lieu of making such referral.

Section 302 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services to help clients re-educate their muscles in order to:

- a. Reduce the pain in their feet, legs, hands, arms, shoulders, neck, torso, face and jaws; and
- b. Reduce any accompanying irritability, fear, worry or concern; and
- c. If any client has any concerns that his or her pain is a medical, dental, psychological or chiropractic problem, the Licensed Biofeedback Therapist shall refer the client to a licensed professional in the appropriate profession; and
- d. If working on an animal and any client has any concerns that her or his animal may have a condition, disease or disorder, the Licensed Biofeedback Therapist shall refer the client to a licensed veterinarian; and
- e. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may work under the supervision of any such licensed professionals in lieu of making such referral.

Section 303 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for any clients who have a medical condition, disease or disorder if:

- a. The client is under medical care with a licensed medical professional; and
- b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is helping the client breathe deeply and relax in order to reduce her or his stress and re-educate his or her muscles in order to reduce the pain accompanying said medical condition, disease or disorder; and/or
- c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed medical professional.

Section 304 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for any clients who have a dental condition, disease or disorder if:

- a. The client is under medical care with a licensed dental professional; and
- b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is helping the client breathe deeply and relax in order to reduce her or his stress and re-educate his or her muscles in order to reduce the pain accompanying said dental condition, disease or disorder; and/or
- c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed dental professional.

Section 305 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients who have a psychological condition, disease or disorder if:

- a. The client is under medical care with a licensed psychotherapist; and
- b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is helping the client breathe deeply and relax in order to reduce her or his stress and re-educate his or her muscles in order to reduce the pain accompanying said psychological condition, disease or disorder; and/or
- c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed psychotherapist or licensed mental health counselor.

Section 306 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients who have a chiropractic condition, disease or disorder if:

- a. The client is under medical care with a licensed chiropractor; and
- b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is helping the client breathe deeply and relax in order to reduce her or his stress and re-educate his or her muscles in order to reduce the pain accompanying said chiropractic condition, disease or disorder; and/or
- c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed chiropractor.

Section 307 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients whose animal has a veterinary medical condition, disease or disorder if:

- a. The client's animal is under medical care with a licensed veterinarian; and
- b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is helping the animal breathe deeply and relax in order to reduce its stress and re-educate its in order to reduce the pain accompanying said condition, disease or disorder; and/or
- c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed veterinarian.

Section 308 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients suffering from minor or irritating physical ailments, aches and pains:

a. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help clients address addictions, allergies, blood pressure, bowel irritability, breathing irregularities, chronic or intermittent pain, digestive problems, dizziness, fibromyalgia, heart rate, heart rate variability, hypertension, mild palsy, physical dexterity, physical mobility, reaction times, respiration, restless leg, sleep problems, smoking, spasms, tics or vertigo; and

b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist will monitor these clients closely and if no improvement is obtained within six sessions, or if the condition worsens, will refer the client to a licensed medical practitioner; and/or

c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed health care professional.

Section 309 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients suffering from any minor or irritating emotional problems or issues:

a. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help clients address anger, envy, fear, grief, inner tension, mild anxiety, mild depression, resentments, smoking cessation and weight loss; and

b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist will monitor these clients closely and if no improvement is obtained within six sessions, or if the condition worsens, will refer the client to a licensed psychotherapist or mental health counselor; and/or

c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed psychotherapist or mental health counselor.

Section 310 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients suffering from any minor or irritating mental problems or issues:

a. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help clients address problems with attention, concentration, focus, short or long term memory loss, mental dexterity and the lack of feelings of well being; and

b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist will monitor these clients closely and if no improvement is obtained within six sessions, or if the condition worsens, will refer the client to a licensed medical practitioner, psychotherapist or mental health counselor; and/or

c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed medical practitioner, psychotherapist or mental health counselor.

Section 311 - The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help clients address any minor or irritating dental problems or issues:

a. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help clients address clenching of teeth, jaw and/or neck tension; and

b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist will monitor these clients closely and if no improvement is obtained within six sessions, or if the condition worsens, will refer the client to a licensed dentist; and/or

c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed dentist.

Section 312 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for clients suffering from pain:

a. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help clients address chronic, intermittent or nagging pain problems; and

b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist will monitor these clients closely and if no improvement is obtained within six sessions, or if the condition worsens, will refer the client to a licensed chiropractor or medical practitioner; and/or

c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed chiropractor or medical practitioner..

Section 313 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may provide biofeedback services for animals suffering from any minor or irritating problems or issues:

a. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist may help animals by addressing issues of concern to their owners; and

b. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist will monitor the progress of these animals closely and if no improvement is obtained within six sessions, or if the condition worsens, will refer the client's animal to a licensed veterinarian; and/or

c. The Licensed Biofeedback Therapist is providing biofeedback services under the supervision of a licensed veterinarian.

Section 314 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists must refer their clients to a licensed medical practitioner any time:

a. The client complains of a medical condition, disease or disorder not currently being treated by a licensed medical practitioner; or

b. The client reports, or the therapist suspects, there may be a medical condition, disease or disorder and the client does not show any improvement after six biofeedback sessions; or

c. The client's condition worsens.

Section 315 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists must refer their clients to a licensed psychotherapist, mental health counselor or medical practitioner any time:

a. The client complains of a psychological condition, disease or disorder not currently being treated by a licensed psychotherapist; or

b. The client reports, or the therapist suspects, there may be a psychological condition, disease or disorder and the client does not show any improvement after six biofeedback sessions; or

c. The client's condition worsens.

Section 316 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists must refer their clients to a licensed chiropractor any time:

a. The client complains of a chiropractic disorder not currently being treated by a licensed chiropractor; or

b. The client reports, or the therapist suspects, there may be a chiropractic disorder and the client does not show any improvement after six biofeedback sessions; or

c. The client's condition worsens.

Section 317 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists must refer their clients to a licensed dentist any time:

a. The client complains of a dental condition, disease or disorder not currently being treated by a licensed dentist; or

b. The client reports, or the therapist suspects, there may be a dental condition, disease or disorder and the client does not show any improvement after six biofeedback sessions; or

c. The client's condition worsens.

Section 318 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists must refer their client's animals to a licensed veterinarian any time:

a. The client complains of their animal suffering from a veterinary condition, disease or disorder not currently being treated by a licensed veterinarian; or

b. The client reports, or the therapist suspects, there may be a veterinary condition, disease or disorder and the client's animal does not show any improvement after six biofeedback sessions; or

c. The client's animal appears to worsen.

Section 319 - Licensed Biofeedback Therapists may continue to provide biofeedback services after a referral is made:

a. by working under the supervision of the licensed professional caring for the client because the referral was made; or

b. by working with the express permission of the licensed professional caring for the client.

Section 320 - Nothing in these regulations shall be construed to allow any Licensed Biofeedback Therapist to:

- a. Practice medicine without a license; and
- b. Practice dentistry without a license, and
- c. Practice psychotherapy without a license; and
- d. Practice mental health counseling without a license; and
- e. Practice chiropractic without a license; and
- f. Practice veterinary medicine without a license; and
- g. Practice naturopathy, homeopathy, nutrition or hypnotism without a license.

Section 321 - Nothing in these regulations shall be construed to prohibit any Licensed Biofeedback Therapist from:

- a. Practicing any other health care profession for which the therapist is qualified by education or training, except those professions expressly prohibited in Section 320; and
- b. Practice any other honorable and law-abiding profession not related to any profession expressly prohibited in Section 320 herein.